

PART OF MAIN STREET ACCEPTED BY COUNCIL

Judge Greenleaf Reports It Is Fair For Property Owners To Pay Cost of Approaches

At its meeting Tuesday morning the City Council passed ordinances accepting the asphalt work so far completed on the western part of Main street.

Passage of the ordinances, which had been held up, following protest of building of driveway approaches on Monday morning, went through without a dissenting vote after a statement by Judge J. J. Greenleaf, to whom Judge Shackelford had left investigation and final decision on the fairness of the matter, he brought up. Judge Greenleaf stated that he had investigated the matter and looked into a number of the legal phases as well, although the latter he had not had opportunity to run down to their final analysis. He said that the act of 1916 gave the Council the right to do whatever it thought best with the streets in the matter of improvement. As far as fairness to the property owner is concerned, Judge Greenleaf said that he thinks it right and fair that the property owner who is solely benefited by the building of the driveway approaches should pay the cost thereof. He said that if these approaches complained of had not been built, that a curbing and gutter would have been built, and the property owners would have been forced to build approaches later to secure access to the street; then again, he pointed out, that by narrowing the street, the property owner was saved a considerable sum in the cost of the street improvement, far more than the slight cost of the approaches. It was pointed out that if the streets had not been narrowed the cost to Judge Shackelford alone would have been $335 more than he is required to pay now. As it is, the city pays a third of the cost of the street and a third of the cost of each and every approach. Engineer Creelius said that a wider street is not justified by traffic conditions.

Mayor Evans said that to force the taxpayers of the whole city to pay any one man's approaches and driveway, or all on the paved streets would not be fair to them.

It was also pointed out that it was in the power of the Council to have apportioned the entire cost of the paved streets to the taxpayers instead of the city paying a third.

After a full discussion of the points at issue, the Council passed the street acceptance ordinances by unanimous vote.

The Street Committee was appointed by the Mayor upon motion, to confer with the L. & N. Railroad in regard to a proposition to extend Orchard street to the freight depot. It was said that the L. & N. had offered to build extension of the street if the city would buy a small lot, now owned by W. W. Broadbent, and which it was said, can be obtained for $250. In order to be sure just what the railroad company will agree to do, the Council put the matter into the hands of the street committee with power to act after investigation. It was shown that nearly everyone who has business at the freight depot will be much benefited by the extension of Orchard street.

Discussion of removal of garbage occupied much time of the councilmen. Councilman O'Neil suggested that the city should substitute a large wagon for the dump cart at present in use. He said that most of the time of the garbage collector is taken up in going to and from the dump with his loads in the cart.

The Mayor and several others thought that a regular schedule ought to be maintained and the people notified. Street Commissioner Allman said that many people want the garbage man to clean up their yards and carry off all sorts of things such as limbs, as well as the usual run of garbage. It was pointed out that the removal of garbage and other things that become unsightly is a real service.

Mayor Evans called attention to the habit of a number of citizens on West Main street who have been sweeping leaves onto the new paved street. The recent rain washed leaves into two catch basins and flooded the street at several points he said. He said there is an ordinance prohibiting sweeping of trash onto the highways which ought to be enforced. The Street Committee was instructed to study a plan which will give satisfaction and the utmost degree of service to all the people on the garbage question at the last cost to the city.

A special committee composed of Councilmen O'Neil and Mershon was named to investigate the right of the city to sell a 13-foot lot at the corner of East Main and Collins street. Councilman Mershon brought up the matter by saying that Mr. Matherly, business partner of Councilman Golden would buy the lot if the city cared to sell it for $500 and release the buyer from payment of the paved street assessment. Discussion developed the opinion that it was extremely doubtful if anyone would have the right to build on the lot as it is considered a part of the street, and the matter was finally left to the committee above named.

TO WRITE OF "FIRST" THINGS IN KENTUCKY

On Sunday, Nov. 28, Col. Jim Maret, the "Boone Way" man, will begin the publication of a series of articles on the early history of Kentucky. The opening chapters will cover "The First Things in Kentucky;" of the first white man to enter the state; the sowing of the first turnip seed to the building of a locomotive, highways and cities; briefly told and mostly in paragraphs, giving the names of persons along with the data of their accomplishments. The Boone Trail, Wilderness Road, Dixie and Boone Highways will receive special attention.

Dr. Wm. Allen Pusey, of Chicago, who has spent some years in gathering data on the actual location of Boone Trail, from end to end, as well as that of the Wilderness Road, will make his tenth trip, accompanied by the "Boone Way Man," to Long Island and the Block House, just west of Bristol, on the Holston river, and spend Thanksgiving week there and at Cumberland Gap, Middleboro, Pineville, Barboursville and London, in finishing up some "gaps" in researches along the Trail. Long Island and the Block House cover the point from which Daniel Boone and his party of immigrants made the start on their invasion of Kentucky county wilderness, on March 7, 1775.

SUTTON'S CAR FLOPS INTO RESERVOIR

A dispatch from Lexington says that an automobile driven by A. M. Sutton, of Lexington, on the Richmond road, swerved through a fence and plunged into the Lexington reservoir Sunday afternoon. The car was wrecked. Mr. Sutton crawled from the wreck and waded ashore. He was scratched and badly shaken up, but not otherwise injured. He lives at the Phoenix hotel.

KENTUCKY LOSES LEAD AS HEMP PRODUCER

Kentucky until recent years the leading state in the production of hemp, now stands lowest among the recognized hemp growing states, the Department of Agriculture announced today. The Northern states now are leading in hemp production, Wisconsin supplying about half of the present total acreage. Next comes Minnesota, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and California.

Kentucky's decline is attributed by agricultural experts to the predominance of tobacco as a commercial crop, and also to the fact that states coming newly in the hemp raising industry have adopted modern methods for large scale production.

Hemp and flax are the principal fibre crops of the United States. Of the former, 14,000 acres were grown this year, with an average yield of 700 pounds to the acre, divided about evenly between long fibre worth an average of 20 cents a pound, and tow, which now which now averages 10 cents a pound. This would bring an average value of the crop to $105 an acre, a total value of $1,470,000. Flax acreage has increased from 5,000 acres in 1919 to 6,000 acres in 1920. The yield is estimated at from 300 to 400 pounds per acre, worth 75 cents a pound. The total value of the flax crop is about $1,600,000.

Much experimenting has been done with a view of utilizing hedges, or the woody center, which makes up half of the hemp stalk. One Ohio firm used several thousand tons for paper manufacture, but this use will need development in the way of shipping facilities and definite market, the department says.

LEAGUE CONFERENCES AT MARION DEC. 10

Harding Invites Republican and Democratic Senators To Dis- cuss It With Him

Washington, Nov. 23.—President-elect Warren G. Harding announced some time since that he would ask the "leading minds" of America to confer with him on this country's relations with the rest of the world before he enters on his administration. These conferences which will begin at Marion, December 10, will discuss confidentially what agency shall be formed to promote peace in the place of the League of Nations.

Invitations have been extended to Democrats as well as Republicans. Those already invited are:

Former President William H. Taft and former Justice Chas. E. Hughes. Senators Henry Cabot Lodge and John C. Calhoun, representing the reservation groups; Senators Philander C. Knox, Hiram Johnson and William E. Borah, of the irreconcilable group in the Republican party, and Senators James A. Reed, of Missouri, and John K. Shields, of Tennessee, Democrats who share these irreconcilable views. Senator Atlee Pomerene, Ohio Democrat who finally supported the Lodge reservations, has been included. A number of other Democrats, it is believed, will be asked in the conference later. Senator Oscar Underwood, of Alabama, is expected to be among these.

Former Secretary of State Elihu Root, who favors the acceptance of the present League of Nations without Article X and with modifications intended to Americanize it, is also among those invited to the conference.

LONESOMEST SCHOOL IN ALL KENTUCKY

Somerset, Ky., Nov. 23.—Bear Wallow school in Pulaski county, is the most isolated school in Kentucky in the opinion of County Superintendent L. E. Meece, of Pulaski county. The school is ten miles from the nearest postoffice and the district the largest in the county. It has 26 pupils. There is no cleared land in sight of the school.

Recently State Superintendent of Public Instruction Colvin received a letter from Miss Susan B. Brinkley, of New York, asking for the name of the most isolated school. The superintendent forwarded the letter to Mr. Meece, who informed Miss Brinkley that in his opinion, the Bear Wallow school bore this distinction.

The school is located near the mouth of the Rockcastle river close to the McCreary and Laurel county lines. Mrs. Grace Wallace of Hail, Ky., is the teacher, Supt. Meece wrote.
